ATTRACTIOMS AT SAVOY, BIJOU AND EMPIRE

Tonight is the big end of the week at the Bijou, Savoy and Empire theaters, when capacity houses will rule. The programs for the week end have been running smoothly, and the entertainers are now at their best. The moving pictures in the three theaters range from cowboy scenes to dramas in high social life in the big cities, and are all good.

Eva Mudge, the versatile lightning-change artist, is the great attraction at the Bijou. Her changes of costume are made with remarkable rapidity, and it is hard to realize that the same little woman is putting on each new character during her act. The audience little realizes what extraordinary, yet methodical, means are used behind the drop scene on the stage, in which these costume changes are effected. She has made a long study in her particular line of entertaining. As a dashing Confederate officer in gray she is particularly pleasing in the set which she styles "Barbara Fritchle." This is one of her best. The Younger Brothers are still Bijou favorites, and their strongman act is one of the best ever shown here.

The Savoy's entertainers are the Anker Sisters, whose pleasing dances and songs are always well received. Both are graceful dancers and sing well. Frank King and Pearl Lovell, the Australian entertainers, are making a big hit also, particularly in the former's thrilling scene, "The Lifeboat Crew."

The Empire has two excellent acts in Pastor and Merle, the burlesque acrobats, and Foley and Earle, the clog dancers and lightning foot-tappers. The latter are nearing the end of their successful engagement. Both acts are full of glee. The pictures are of unusual interest.

MISS ORALEE LIST WILL DEMONSTRATE

When Miss Oralee List settles down in her Oklahoma home, after her tour of the world, she will write a story so full of incidents in her journey that it will sell at sight. Miss List has been persuaded to act as demonstrator for Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., during Harmony Week, which begins Monday.

There are many varieties of perfumes, but only the best have been used in scented the toilet preparations made by the Rexall Company. Each preparation has its uses, and it is to demonstrate them to the women of Honolulu that Miss List remains. According to the newspaper extracts with which her scrapbook is almost filled, she has had plenty of cloudy weather alternating with brilliant sunshine since she started for Europe. Arriving at New York she decided with her companion to turn back, and instead of continuing eastward she would leave her homeland at the western gateway. Her trip across the continent was the foundation for a story of hard luck versus persistence, in which the latter beat the former to a frazzle. There are places on the map which will never remain green in her memory because of the meats of questionable quantity and, perhaps, quality; where she and her friend banqueted for a whole day on thirteen cents and waxed fat.

There are other places where her credentials from Shriners, Masons and Elks obtained for the girls courteous treatment and the proverbial small warm bird. Since she separated from her young woman friend, who returned to Denver to be married, her voyage and experience are proving satisfying. While acting as saleswoman for the Bulletin she increased the demand for this paper. Persons who habitually buy one copy of the popular paper bought two, and the habit is still with them. Her graceful actions, extreme modesty and proof against absorption of the salve which some men are prone to apply to women traveling alone, have won for her the respect of the people. It seems probable that her career as demonstrator at the Rexall store will be a continuation of the success which she met last week on a Bulletin expedition.

During Harmony Week every woman purchased of an article at Benson, Smith & Co. will be given a hand-stitched handkerchief perfumed with a Harmony odor of her own selection. Many bottles will be open for inspection and all tested.

JAPANESE WRESTLING AT ATHLETIC PARK

Monday night at Athletic Park the Independent Theater company begins the staging of a week's performance of Japanese wrestlers, Jiu-Jitsu artists, etc. The park will be lighted and the company promises a good evening of sport. Japanese wrestling, or "Judo" and Jiu-Jitsu are two entirely different sports, and are highly interesting. Some of the men who will appear are from Japan, where they show on the mat, while others are local performers.

ROBBING A BURGLAR AT ASAHI THEATER

The patrons of the Asahi Theater have been tickled to death over the way in which the Russells do their work in the musical comedy sketch "Robbing a Burglar." There is some fine acting shown in it, and both artists do good work. The piece is full of incident and breaks from tragedy into screaming farce. During the time the artists were on the big circuit in Australia they received great praise from the Australian papers, and were headliners during the whole of their time.

Some crackerjack films are to be shown tonight. They arrived from the Coast during the week and are the best on the market. "The Broker's Daughter" gives a fine representation of the chase for wealth on the stock exchange in New York. It is a very strong picture and is full of incident from beginning to end. "A Cowboy's Generosity" is another picture that is taking well. All the incidents in the life of these big-hearted boys of the West are shown, and also the big sacrifice that he made for his friend.

Monday night the Russells will put on a screaming farce, entitled "Marconi's Wireless Pip-Pip." This is one of the best things that have ever been shown here, and there are some real good pieces of work in it. The sight of the new wireless machine by which the messages are shown is enough to interest anyone.

PICTURES DRAWING CARDS

The new set of films which arrived from the Coast during the week, now being shown at the Independent Theater, are drawing full houses nightly. The patrons find it much more pleasant than these nights to sit in the cool, instead of being shut up in a hot building. "An Ungrateful Daughter-In-Law" is certainly all that was sold of it, and one that gets rounds of applause every night. "A Miner's Sweetheart" gives all the details of the life in a rough mining camp, and shows how the men have to work to get the gold out of the ground. It is full of incident. Another fine film shows the time of the battle of Waterloo, by which the British gained their supremacy and beat the famous French general, Napoleon.

The Melnotte Sisters are singing songs that came by the last boat and are scoring big hits with them every time.
